FOR CHILDREN

Summer Holiday Art Classes

Mondays 9, 16, 23 July at 10.30am
These classes will introduce children to the exhibition and working in a variety of materials will encourage them to respond to the themes and ideas. The works will be included in a Children's Open to be held later in the year. Places, priced £4 per child for 3 sessions or £1.50 per session including materials, juice and biscuits, are limited. For booking details phone Pat Fisher on 031-225 2383.

FORTHCOMING

Two Assistants, 1967

11 August to 23 September
Max Ernst: The Sculpture
During this year's Edinburgh Festival, the gallery is mounting a major exhibition devoted to this lesser known aspect of the work of Max Ernst (1891-1976), one of the foremost figures of twentieth century art. The show, which is the most comprehensive survey in recent years, brings together all the most important works in bronze, casts produced from in situ wall reliefs and a collection of artefacts in gold and silver which the artist made in later life.
Evident throughout Ernst's work is a consistent approach to technique, a totality of artistic vision and a highly personalised iconography. The show will include the monumental piece, Capricorn (1948), a work which exemplifies the rich, unique blend of mythical and primitive allusion which was articulated through his complex and often playful and witty imagery.
